

Commentary on the Gospel for Wed, Jul 20th 2011

Today's parable calls us to cultivate our inner life. When we are ready to receive God's patient mentoring, we attain great advantage in advancing our way towards Him. We are called to be docile learners by nurturing our desire to cooperate with His grace. God has planted in each of us such desire. It is our task to water it every day through our willingness to listen to His words and our selfless service towards others. Growth in the spiritual life is possible when the seed within us matures and brings fruition pleasing to the Father.
