|                 | ing Father, through Jesus Christ, your living Word you address yourself today to each of us personally and as a community of faith. May we live as we believe as a benerres and does of your word, and like you and your Son, be compassionate and care often for those neglected by society, the needy, the abandoned, the distressed.  We ask this through Jesus Christ, our Lord.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
